

CMCAS

Capital Markets Credit Analysts Society

HENRY STEUART, is a is an Executive Director at J.P. Morgan Chase & Co in New York where he serves as a credit officer managing credit exposure to bank and broker-dealer customers of the firm's Investment Bank. His duties include establishing the structure, terms and conditions for extending credit, providing independent approval of all extensions of credit for existing and prospective relationships, and ongoing monitoring and risk assessment of clients' creditworthiness. Prior to joining J.P. Morgan Chase & Co in 1997, Henry was a vice president at Citibank in New York where he was responsible for various financial and operational activities in the bank's derivatives and card businesses. He is a CPA and began his career in public accounting, working in KPMG's San Francisco office and Price Waterhouse Coopers' offices in London and New York. Henry earned a BA in Economics from Stanford University in 1984.